

Meet the Teacher

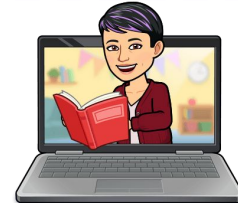

THE BASICS:

Hi! My name is Kristen Manning and I am the librarian at BRCVPA. I have been in education for over twenty years and I cannot imagine a better profession. I have taught in both the public and private setting and I can honestly say that BRCVPA is the BEST. I have never worked with more talented, loving and dedicated professionals. As the librarian, I get to see everyone and help them find just the right book. I also get to explore STEAM activities in the library. Do you like puppets? Well, I have them in the library. Is legos your thing? I have you covered. How about robots? I love robots! Come to the library and CHECK IT OUT!

MY CHILDHOOD:

I was born in Bogalusa. It is located in the toe of our Louisiana boot. I went to Pleasant Hill Elementary, Bogalusa Junior High and then I was a Bogalusa Lumberjack. I have always lived in Louisiana, except for a couple of years when I lived in Glens Falls, New York. I am the youngest of three kids and I followed in our sibling tradition of attending Louisiana State University. GO TIGERS!
